"Manchildparty"

With the very original children's song project "Manchildparty" the dutch/austrian guitarist is looking for the child in man (and in women also of course). Newland proves his enormous ability as an arranger and explores the sometimes very simple and reduced tunes according to all the rules of jazz art.

Eventually we find out where Hansel and Gretel went after they conquered the witch: to the Caribbean Islands! Newland also shows us the dark sides of Hänschen Klein's life before he took the "hip-hop rider" gallop off into the wide world.

This jazzy and groovy suite is harmonious and rhythmically varied, and the cream of the Austrojazzers (Kugi, Maurer, Preinfalk, Radovan, Feldgrill, Gattringer, Urbanek) contributes to the fine result. The band with three saxophonists, one trombonist and rhythm group develops the catchy tunes from childhood with relish joy and improvises gratifyingly disrespectful. What makes the thing sound funny, original and interesting!
