rens Newland geeBeedee trio "algorhythm"

Being one of the pioneers and masters of fusion jazz, Rens Newland presents here kind of a new approach: with his younger fellow musicians, Wolfi Rainer on light drums and Andy Mayerl on upright bass, he comes up with what he calls "bluesy acoustic fusion".

Liner notes of the artist:

„Algorhythm is about trying to bring colour into a grey world. Music is a good instrument for that. In the most songs I use the acoustic steel string guitar to get these high shining overtones, for the rest of the tunes my crunchy electric jazz-guitar.

Andy Mayerl is bottoming with his wonderful, big upright bass, Wolfi Rainer is flowing and grooving with his creative drums.“

Important for the trio was, that the recordings sound natural in any aspect, as the tunes were taken from live-in-studio sessions, where interaction, emotion, dynamics and surprises still have their meaning. The tension between the sensible, but yet strong, groovy drums and the dainty acoustic guitar gives the tracks this special touch!

The compositions are mainly new and special made for this project, but also some older tunes of the more than thousand works of the band-leader, which waited impatiently to be recorded, are on the album, like Clouds Over Vienna and Amsterdam CS (both performed oftentimes, but originally from his Rens Newland Circus project-with Klaus Dickbauer a.o.), and Betty's Bob from his Jazzzone project. Look Like Kool is a very new one, that also came out on the OSTINATO album Still Funky after all these Years. Andy Mayerl played a.o. with Louie Austen, Florian Bramböck, European Jazz Youth Orchestra, Nina Proll, Michael Tschuggnall, Sabina Hank.

Wolfi Rainer played a.o. with Ray Anderson, Karl Ratzer, Ulrich Drechsler, Jazzwerkstatt Wien.
