Joris Dudli

"Boundaries Expanded"

On this album with an all-star cast, band leader Joris Dudli presents himself as a singer for the first time and has a very special approach and sound! Nevertheless, Joris himself says that he had no intention of releasing a "Singer's Record", because the first half hour in particular is clearly dominated by his - very catchy - instrumental pieces. Only from about the second half onwards does it gradually move into some extremely harmonious vocal versions of the "Great American Song Book" with top-class solos from jazz greats Eric Alexander, Wallace Roney Jr., Vincent Herring etc. (by the way, "Summertime" was soulfully interpreted by Carole Alston). The debut of the young Gregor Storf on tenor saxophone and drums makes the album unique.
